A Note on Sources

The statistics and information in this book were derived from a range of sources, including the business sector and companies themselves, international organizations such as the World Bank, and Thai government ministries. The editorial team attempted to identify the most reliable source and check against other sources whenever necessary. In many cases, the source is cited. However, we felt it would be tedious reading to cite within the text every reference and source for the large amount of information gathered here. Please see References on page 334 for a more comprehensive list.
